Prof. Zhe Zhuang
Nanjing University, China

Dr. Zhe Zhuang is now an associate professor at School of Integrated Circuits, Nanjing University. He obtained his Bachelor's and Doctoral degrees from Nanjing University. He conducted visiting research at the III-V Semiconductor National Research Centre, University of Sheffield, UK, and worked as a postdoctoral fellow at King Abdullah University of Science and Technology (KAUST), Saudi Arabia.

He has long been engaged in research on wide-bandgap semiconductor materials and devices. He has published more than 90 co-author papers in academic journals and conferences such as Science Advances, IEEE IEDM, and Applied Physics Reviews. A number of his research achievements have been reported by international technology media including Semiconductor Today and Compound Semiconductor. He has applied for/been granted multiple Chinese/US/PCT invention patents, some of which have been transferred for application. He has won awards including the Top 10 Progress in China's Third-Generation Semiconductor Technology (2024/2025), the China Industry-University-Research Cooperation Innovation Achievement Award (2024), Next Best Lecture Award, and so on.
